Executive Summary

hygeiapws.com has a likable, well-illustrated brand (the Spartan mascot, the wave motif) and a working, self-serve booking flow through Jobber — real functional strengths a lot of small local-service sites lack. But the site is built and structured almost entirely around one specific offer, residential trash bin cleaning, while the brand name on the logo says "Power Wash Solutions." Commercial pressure washing — the higher-ticket, higher-margin, more scalable service line, and the one this audit was specifically asked to help grow — is present but treated as an afterthought: a single quote-request card with no dedicated content, no commercial-specific proof points, and no SEO footprint of its own.

The deeper technical issue compounds this: the entire site is a single scrolling page. There is no separate, indexable URL for bin cleaning, for residential pressure washing, or for commercial pressure washing. That means Google has exactly one page to associate with all three offers, in three different cities' worth of search intent, competing against each other for the same title tag and the same handful of keywords. This is the single biggest structural constraint on this business's ability to show up in search — bigger than any copywriting or design fix.

POSITIONING

The five findings that matter most

CRITICAL The entire site is one URL — no separate pages exist

"Service Pricing," "How it Works," "FAQ," and "Contact Us" are all anchor jumps (#section-...) on a single homepage, not real pages. Google can only ever rank one URL for this business, forcing "trash bin cleaning," "residential pressure washing," and "commercial pressure washing" to all compete against each other instead of each earning their own rankings.

CRITICAL No title tag, no meta description, no schema markup found anywhere

The single page this business has to rank on has none of the basic on-page SEO fields filled in. This is not a "needs improvement" finding — these fields appear to be entirely blank, which is close to the most severe technical SEO gap a site can have.

HIGH Brand name vs. actual homepage funnel don't match

The logo and domain both say "Power Wash Solutions," but the homepage's featured, priced, sign-up-ready offer is bin cleaning ($35/mo, $65 one-time). Pressure washing is quote-only with no pricing, no photos of commercial jobs, and no dedicated proof section. A commercial facilities buyer landing here is being sold bin cleaning first.

HIGH About Us page is empty

No company story, no connection made to Hygeia Janitorial Services' 35-year track record — a real asset this brand isn't borrowing from at all.

HIGH No connection to Hygeia Janitorial Services anywhere on the site

Same phone number, same owner, and pressure washing is listed as a service on both sites independently — yet there is zero cross-linking, no shared branding cue, and no mention of the 35-year parent track record that would make a commercial buyer trust this newer-looking brand.

Methodology: live crawl of hygeiapws.com and all discoverable content, robots.txt/sitemap checks, navigation/link-structure analysis, and competitive benchmarking against ranking Bay Area pressure-washing and bin-cleaning companies, conducted September 2026.

Brand Architecture: One Business, Two Services, Two Audiences

Before any SEO work happens, this business needs a decision about what hygeiapws.com is. Right now it is trying to be three things on one page: a subscription bin-washing service for homeowners, a one-off pressure-washing service for homeowners, and a commercial/facilities pressure-washing vendor for property managers and government buildings. Those are three different buyers with three different decision processes, and a subscription-app-style homepage built around $35/month bin cleaning is not the page that wins a commercial facilities contract.

Recommended structure

PATH	AUDIENCE	WHAT IT NEEDS
/residential-bin-cleaning	Homeowners	Keep the current Jobber-powered sign-up flow, pricing cards, and FAQ — this part already works well
/residential-pressure-washing	Homeowners	Driveways, patios, siding, decks, fences, garage floors — with real before/after photos and a simple quote request
/commercial-pressure-washing	Property managers, facilities managers, government buildings	Dumpster enclosures, sidewalks, parking structures, building exteriors, graffiti removal — with commercial-specific proof, certifications, insurance/COI language, and a "Request a Site Walk / Quote" path distinct from the consumer sign-up flow
/about, /service-area, /faq, /contact	All	Real, unique, indexable pages — not anchors on the homepage

Naming worth reconsidering

"hygeiapws.com" is not a self-explanatory URL — "PWS" means nothing to a searcher or to Google without context, and it doesn't contain "pressure washing," "power washing," "bin cleaning," or a city name, all of which carry real keyword weight in a domain/brand context. It's not necessary to change the domain, but the rebuild's title tags, H1s, and page names should do the work the domain doesn't — lead with "Hygeia Power Wash Solutions | Commercial & Residential Pressure Washing + Bin Cleaning — San Jose, CA," not just the brand name alone.

Connect it to the Hygeia name that already has 35 years of trust

Hygeia Janitorial Services has an established, credible, government-eligible track record (DVBE/DGS/DIR, 35+ years, BBB A+). Hygeia Power Wash Solutions currently reads as a completely unrelated, newer, more consumer/subscription-flavored brand — which actively undercuts it with commercial buyers who are evaluating vendor legitimacy. At minimum:

ACTION	WHERE
Add "A Hygeia Company" or "Sister company to Hygeia Janitorial Services" to the header/footer	Both sites
Link directly to siliconvalleyjanitorial.com / hygeiaservices.com from the commercial pressure-washing page	hygeiapws.com
Reuse the DVBE/DGS/DIR credential block on the new commercial pressure-washing page, if it legally covers this service line — confirm certification scope with your certifying agency	hygeiapws.com commercial page

This single change — making it obvious these are one trustworthy company, not two unrelated small sites — is likely to lift commercial conversion rate more than any individual design tweak in this report.

UI / UX Audit

What's working

Genuine strengths to preserve

The "How It Works" 3-step visual (Sign Up → We Clean → Clean Bins) is genuinely well designed and instantly understandable. The Jobber-powered "Choose Service" checkout flow is a real, working self-serve booking system most small local-service sites don't have. The playful Spartan/wave illustration style gives the bin-cleaning side of the brand real personality. Keep all of this for the residential/bin-cleaning line.

Issues found

CRITICAL Commercial buyers are shown a consumer subscription app

A facilities manager comparing vendors for a parking structure or dumpster-pad cleaning contract lands on the same playful, cartoon-bubble page as a homeowner signing up for $35/month trash can cleaning, with no visual or content path built specifically for them.

HIGH No photos of actual commercial pressure-washing work

The "Results" section shows garbage-can before/afters; there is no equivalent proof section for building exteriors, sidewalks, parking lots, or graffiti removal — the exact evidence a commercial buyer needs before requesting a quote.

HIGH Footer reveals unfinished, unbranded template ("Andy Montero's Account")

This is a website-builder default label left in the live footer. It's a small detail that, once noticed, undermines trust instantly — the digital equivalent of a price tag still on a suit.

MEDIUM About Us section is blank

No story, no photo of the team, no mention of the parent Hygeia brand or its 35-year history.

MEDIUM Single long scrolling page makes commercial content hard to find

Even a motivated commercial buyer has to scroll past the entire residential bin-cleaning pitch and pricing to reach the one pressure-washing quote card — added friction for your highest-value lead type.

UI/UX recommendations for the rebuild

RECOMMENDATION	WHY
Split into a real multi-page site (Section 02) with a distinct commercial landing page as its own top-level nav item	Lets you design a commercial-specific first impression instead of forcing one page to serve two audiences
Build a commercial-specific hero: real photos, "Serving property managers, HOAs, and government facilities across San Jose–San Mateo," insurance/COI and Hygeia-family trust badges	Matches the visual seriousness a facilities buyer expects
Add a before/after gallery specifically for pressure washing (buildings, lots, sidewalks, graffiti) separate from the bin-cleaning gallery	Direct proof of the exact service being evaluated
Remove "Andy Montero's Account" and any other builder-default text from the footer; add real NAP, licensing/insurance info, and links to sister site	Removes an easily-fixed credibility red flag
Write real About Us content connecting to Hygeia Janitorial's 35-year history	Borrows established trust rather than starting from zero
Add a simple commercial quote form (property type, square footage/area, service needed, preferred timeline) distinct from the consumer Jobber checkout	Commercial buyers expect a quote/consultation step, not instant self-checkout pricing

Technical SEO Audit

CHECK	FINDING	STATUS
Site architecture	Single-page site; "Service Pricing," "How it Works," "FAQ," and "Contact Us" are all anchor jumps (#section-id) on the homepage, not separate URLs	Fail
robots.txt	Not found / returned empty on request	Fail
XML sitemap	Not found / returned empty on request	Fail
Title tag	No descriptive title tag detected	Fail
Meta description	Not present	Fail
Heading structure	Numerous H1 tags across one page ("To get started, choose a service," "Pressure Washing Services," "Results," "How It Works," "Our Service Area," "FAQ's," "About Us," "Contact Us") — a single page should have one H1, with the rest demoted to H2/H3	Fail
Structured data (schema.org)	No LocalBusiness, Service, Product, or FAQPage schema detected	Fail
City / service landing pages	None — service area (San Jose, Los Gatos, Sunnyvale, Santa Clara, Milpitas, Saratoga, Cupertino) is a single sentence on the homepage	Fail
Commercial-specific page	Does not exist as a separate, indexable URL	Fail
Booking system	Third-party Jobber checkout — functional for bin-cleaning subscriptions, but off-site, so on-page SEO/content still needs to do the work of getting found in the first place	Functional, not an SEO asset
HTTPS	Site loads over HTTPS	Pass
Mobile viewport meta tag	Present	Pass

This is a rebuild, not a patch job

Because the fundamental structure is a single page with no title tags, meta data, schema, or separate URLs, incremental fixes won't move this business into serious contention for organic search traffic. The rebuild needs to be planned as a proper multi-page website from the start — the good news is that almost everything currently on the page (copy, illustrations, FAQ content, the Jobber integration) can be reused and reorganized rather than recreated.

Structured data to implement on rebuild

SCHEMA TYPE	WHERE	WHY IT MATTERS
LocalBusiness / Organization	Every page (global), with sameAs link to Hygeia Janitorial	Establishes verified NAP, service area, and the sibling-brand relationship for AI/entity graphs
Service	Bin cleaning, residential pressure washing, commercial pressure washing pages	Lets each offer rank independently instead of competing on one page
Product / Offer	Bin-cleaning pricing tiers ($35/mo, $65 one-time)	Enables rich pricing display in search results
FAQPage	FAQ page(s) — split bin-cleaning FAQs from pressure-washing FAQs	Primary format AI Overviews and chat assistants extract directly

On-Page & Content Audit

Content inventory

All content lives on one page: a hero, a 3-step "How It Works" explainer, a pricing/service-selection module (Monthly Clean, One-Time Clean, Power Washing Service), a "Results" before/after section (bin cleaning only), a service-area line, an FAQ block (7 questions, entirely about bin cleaning — none about pressure washing), a blank About Us, and a Contact section.

CONTENT GAP	BUSINESS IMPACT
Zero commercial-specific copy	No mention of property management, HOAs, dumpster enclosures at scale, government facilities, or recurring commercial maintenance contracts — despite these being named services in the nav
No pressure-washing FAQ content	All 7 published FAQs are about bin cleaning; a commercial buyer's real questions ("do you carry liability insurance," "can you work after hours," "do you service multiple locations under one contract") go unanswered
No pricing signal for pressure washing	"Request a Quote" with zero starting-price guidance is higher-friction than competitors who publish at least a starting rate or square-footage-based estimate range
No case studies / commercial client examples	No property management company, HOA, or government facility is named or referenced anywhere
Blank About Us	Directly costs the trust transfer available from the 35-year Hygeia Janitorial track record (Section 02)

Local SEO & Google Business Profile Audit

No independent Google Business Profile, Yelp, or BBB presence specific to "Hygeia Power Wash Solutions" was confirmed in this audit — which tracks with a business that is currently subordinate to, and unlinked from, the main Hygeia Janitorial brand. This is actually an opportunity: a dedicated GBP listing for pressure washing and bin cleaning services can rank in the local map pack independently of the janitorial business, effectively doubling Hygeia's local visibility footprint for two different search categories.

Local SEO action plan

Google Business Profile — set up as its own listing

QUICK WIN

- Create/claim a Google Business Profile for "Hygeia Power Wash Solutions" (or "Hygeia Pressure Washing") with category Pressure Washing Service, and secondary categories Garbage Collection Service / Trash Cleanup Service where applicable
- List San Jose, Los Gatos, Sunnyvale, Santa Clara, Milpitas, Saratoga, Cupertino as service areas — and expand into San Mateo, Redwood City, and Mountain View, matching the regional goal in this engagement
- Upload real before/after photos of commercial jobs, not just bin cleaning
- Link the GBP description to the Hygeia Janitorial parent brand and 35-year history
- Set up automatic review requests through the existing Jobber platform (Jobber has built-in review-request automation — likely already available, possibly just not turned on)

Citations & directories

- List on Yelp, Angi, Thumbtack, Nextdoor, and Bing Places under a consistent "Hygeia Power Wash Solutions" name and NAP
- For the commercial side specifically: list on the same government/municipal vendor portals recommended for Hygeia Janitorial (Cal eProcure, city/county vendor registries) if pressure washing falls under an eligible service code for your certifications

AEO & GEO — Showing Up in AI Overviews, ChatGPT, and Voice Search

The single-page structure and missing schema markup mean this site currently has almost no chance of being cited by AI Overviews or assistants like ChatGPT/Perplexity/Gemini for either "trash bin cleaning near me" or "commercial pressure washing San Jose" — there's no dedicated, well-structured page for either query to match against.

LEVER	SPECIFIC ACTION FOR HYGEIA POWER WASH SOLUTIONS
Split into indexable pages first	AEO/GEO optimization is only meaningful once there are separate URLs for bin cleaning, residential pressure washing, and commercial pressure washing (Section 02) — this is the prerequisite, not an optional add-on
Answer-first FAQ content per service	Write pressure-washing-specific FAQs ("How much does commercial parking lot pressure washing cost in San Jose?", "Do you pressure wash dumpster enclosures for property managers?") with direct 2–3 sentence answers up top
FAQPage + Service schema	Mark up both the existing bin-cleaning FAQs and the new pressure-washing FAQs separately
Entity consistency with Hygeia Janitorial	Use sameAs schema linking both Hygeia entities together — this is what allows AI systems to understand them as one trustworthy 35-year-old company operating two service lines, rather than two small, disconnected, unverifiable sites
Fresh, dated content	A "before/after project" or seasonal maintenance-tips page updated periodically outperforms a static single page for recency signals

Programmatic SEO Plan & Keyword Map

City × Service matrix

Once the site has real, separate URLs (Section 02/04), the same city × service PSEO approach recommended for Hygeia Janitorial applies here — sized to this business's two service lines.

PRIORITY TIER	PAGES TO BUILD
Tier 1	San Jose, Santa Clara, Sunnyvale × Commercial Pressure Washing, Residential Pressure Washing, Trash Bin Cleaning
Tier 2	San Mateo, Redwood City, Mountain View, Cupertino, Los Gatos × same three services (extends the current 7-city footprint toward the full San Jose–San Mateo goal)
Tier 3	Saratoga, Milpitas + any additional cities × Graffiti Removal, Dumpster Enclosure Cleaning, HOA/Property Management maintenance contracts

Target keyword themes

Commercial: commercial pressure washing San Jose

Commercial: parking lot pressure washing service Bay Area

Commercial: dumpster enclosure cleaning San Jose

Commercial: property management pressure washing contract

Commercial: government facility pressure washing California

Residential: driveway pressure washing San Jose

Residential: house washing Santa Clara County

Bin cleaning: trash can cleaning service San Jose

Bin cleaning: garbage bin cleaning subscription near me

AEO/long-tail: how much does commercial pressure washing cost per square foot

AEO/long-tail: how often should a parking garage be pressure washed

AEO/long-tail: best time of year to pressure wash a commercial building

Branded: Hygeia power wash solutions / Hygeia pressure washing

Competitive note

Commercial pressure washing in this region is served by facility-maintenance generalists (the same players named in the Hygeia Janitorial report — TCO Cleaning, ServiceMaster, Anago — all of whom list pressure washing as one line among many) rather than pressure-washing specialists with dedicated local SEO built out. That means a genuinely dedicated, well-structured commercial pressure-washing site has real room to outrank generalist competitors on this specific service, especially once tied credibly to the Hygeia name.

Prioritized Action Plan

Phase 1 · Days 1–30 — Fix & Foundation

QUICK WINS

- Remove "Andy Montero's Account" and any other builder-default placeholder text from the footer
- Write real About Us content connecting to the Hygeia Janitorial 35-year history
- Add a "Sister company to Hygeia Janitorial Services" link/badge, and cross-link both sites' pressure-washing pages to each other
- Add a basic title tag and meta description to the homepage as an interim fix ahead of the full rebuild
- Create/claim a dedicated Google Business Profile for the pressure-washing and bin-cleaning business
- Turn on Jobber's automated review-request feature if not already active

Phase 2 · Days 30–90 — Rebuild & Structure

HIGH IMPACT

- Rebuild as a proper multi-page site: separate URLs for bin cleaning, residential pressure washing, and commercial pressure washing (Section 02/04)
- Build a dedicated commercial landing page with real project photos, insurance/COI info, and a consultation-style quote form
- Implement LocalBusiness, Service, Product, and FAQPage schema sitewide, with sameAs links to Hygeia Janitorial
- Split FAQ content into bin-cleaning and pressure-washing sets, each answer-first and schema-marked
- Build Tier 1 PSEO pages (San Jose, Santa Clara, Sunnyvale × 3 services)

Phase 3 · Days 90–180 — Scale & Compound

COMPOUNDING GROWTH

- Build Tier 2 and Tier 3 PSEO pages, extending service-area coverage to San Mateo and Redwood City
- Publish 2–3 commercial case studies (property management, HOA, or government facility jobs)
- Pursue government/municipal vendor listings for the commercial pressure-washing line, mirroring the Hygeia Janitorial DVBE/DGS strategy where certification scope allows
- Quarterly refresh of pricing, photos, and schema dateModified values
